APPROACHES TO POWER INEQUITY WITHIN ORGANIZATIONS

Social Justice Approach
♦ Acknowledges systems of oppression and structural and institutional barriers based on racial, ethnic, gender, class, sexuality, ability, age, immigration status, and other differences
♦ Understands race, gender, and other aspects of identity to be socially constructed, tied to complex histories, and playing significant roles in how resources and power are distributed
♦ Acknowledges the existence of privilege (advantages, access, favors, and benefits to members of dominant groups at the expense of members of marginalized groups) and the opportunity to challenge oppression from a place of privilege—as an ally
♦ Committed to an ongoing process of self-education and coalition-building in order to create open and supportive environments and take collective, collaborative action for systemic change.

Cultural Competency Approach
♦ Focuses attention on valuing unique worldviews of different communities
♦ Advocates that people and groups develop their capacity or ability to work effectively across difference by growing culture-specific awareness, knowledge, and skills
♦ May rely on generalizations around cultural identity as a means to understand groups and offer a sense of access

Multiculturalist Approach
♦ Encourages tolerance and conflict-free diversity, often highlights achievements as a way to downplay systemic or structural barriers and inequalities
♦ Highlights cultural life, cultural expression, cuisine, dress
♦ Downplays race in favor of talking about and celebrating culture

Neutrality Approach
♦ Dismisses significance of race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, class, immigration status, ability, age
♦ Thinks that not seeing race, ethnicity, or “color” is equivalent to not being racist
♦ Asserts that everyone is “on the same playing field,” and has equal access to opportunity and advancement based on merit

Exclusionary Approach
♦ Either proactively or inadvertently reinforces exclusion, disempowerment, marginalization, or discrimination of people of color, LGBTQ+ people, women, or other marginalized groups of people
♦ Requires those groups to assimilate to norms defined by dominant groups, if they are to participate at all
♦ Tries to maintain the status quo for the dominant group

By no means a comprehensive list, and the categories above are not static or mutually exclusive.
